Local Area Information

Min-y-Ffrwd is located in Brynteg, a countryside environment, yet only a short distance from Benllech with a good range of shops and an attractive sandy beach. This is a small select site offering pitches on well kept grass for touring caravans, motorhomes and tents, with a small number of static caravans. A modern toilet block in the centre of the site offers all the usual facilities. There are a wide variety of opportunities to eat out in the area, with Monty's Eating House and the California Inn within walking distance, and the renowned Ship Inn at Red Wharf Bay just a drive away.

Benllech is a seaside resort on the east coast of Anglesey North Wales. With it's golden sands a clear blue sea and safe beach area Benllech is popular for traditional family holidays. The town itself is quite small (population 2,340) with many residents having retired to the town after spending many happy holidays in Benllech. Much of the town straddles the A5025 east coast Anglesey road, as indeed does the shopping centre. Although there are no large chain stores there is a number of supermarkets and a variety of shops supplying the needs of visitors and locals alike. However, one does not visit Benllech for the shopping.
