Park Description

Caer Odyn is a family-owned and privately run Static Caravan Park located in the rural village of Edern, near the northern coastline of the Llŷn Peninsula.

A nearby footpath leads to the fishing village of Porthdinllaen, with its sandy beach and the renowned Ty Coch Inn. Other local landmarks and beaches are also easily accessible by foot. The Llŷn coastal path is just a short distance away, leading to many attractions.

The park is a short walk from the village, where you can find the Ship Inn and Woodlands Hall Hotel for a drink or meal. Additionally, public service buses to Aberdaron, Tudweiliog, Morfa Nefyn (Porthdinllaen), Nefyn, and Pwllheli are available from the nearby village.

This region of Wales is often chosen by holiday makers because it is easily reached from the North of England, but feels worlds away once you are within the stunning natural scenery the Llŷn Peninsula has to offer. Its micro climate makes you feel as though you're holidaying abroad, not within the United Kingdom.
